Dear General Walters

I regret that due to illness, I was unable to join you at our Dining-In on 29 March 1974. However, on behalf of the officers and guests of the 7602d Air Intelligence Group, I would like to extend to you our sincere appreciation for your presence.

I was informed that you provided an added, meaningful dimension to the Dining-In activities. Your remarks concerning your career and the development of our service intelligence collection organizations helped to place our present endeavors in historical perspective and increase our appreciation of those individuals who made our intelligence effort what it is today. The warm personal responses you received, collectively and individually, reflect the interest and appreciation generated by your comments.

Again, General Walters, thank you for your most valued participation in our social event.

Sincerely
